Depleted uranium weaponry by the United States, defying all international treaties, will exterminate all species on earth including the human species, and yet this country continues to possess knowledge of its destructive potential.

LEUREN MORET

The United States has staged four wars using depleted uranium weaponry, illegal under national treaties, conventions and agreements, as well as under the US military law. The use of this illegal radioactive weaponry, which has already contaminated vast regions with level radiation and will contaminate other parts of the world over time, is indeed an international issue. The deeper purpose is revealed by comparing regions contaminated with depleted uranium — from Egypt, the Middle East, Central Asia and the South of India — to the US geostrategic imperatives described in Zbigniew Brzezinski’s Grand Chessboard.

SOUTH REGION:
“This huge region, torn by volatile hatreds and surrounded by competing powerful neighbors, is likely to be a major battlefield, both for wars among nation-states and, more likely, for protracted ethnic and religious violence. Whether India acts as a restraint or whether it takes advantage of some opportunity to impose its will on Pakistan will greatly affect the regional scope of the likely conflicts. The internal strains within Turkey and Iran are likely not only to get worse but to greatly reduce the stabilizing role these states are capable of
