

Home | Free Newsletter | Go | Sign-in/Submit | Site Contents | Directory | Sections | Support OpEdNews | Ad Rates | Search | Site | Web

Hot News | EconCrisis | Obama | Election Integrity | LGBT Gay | Media | Biz- Econ | Edges | Govt | Religions | Life/Arts | Security WMDs Terror | Rights Justice Democracy | Health | Veterans Military | Torture Guantanamo | Food/Farming | Mideast Iran Iraq Afg Pa | Mid East | 911 | Eco Enviro | Activism | Community

Refresh Tag(s): Citizens United; Citizens United; Election Reform; Energy Exploration - Offshore Drilling; Gulf Of Mexico; Money Buys Power; Natl Oceanic And Atmospheric Admin NOAA; Obama Administration; Oil Spills; Oil Spills And Environmental Disasters: (more...)
Add to My Group

May 4, 2010 at 08:30:29

View Ratings | Rate It (1 comment)

Promoted to Headline (H3) on 5/4/10:

Obama Admin Warned by NOAA It Was Underestimating Offshore Drilling Risks-- To Be Expected Given Big Money

Printer-Friendly

E-MAIL THIS

SAVE AS FAVORITE

VIEW FAVORITES

By Rob Kall (about the author) Page 1 of 1 page(s)

opednews.com Permalink

For OpEdNews: Rob Kall - Writer

TODAY
80% SAVINGS
Sold For: $23.74

Consumer Alerts
SPECIAL REPORT: Macbooks are being auctioned for an incredible 80% off on QuiBids.com! Click for full story...
ConsumerTipsDigest.org

image from Moveon.org ad calling for stop to all new offshore drilling

The admin was warned but it had a political agenda and a government infrastructure still primarily made up of Bush appointees who earned their jobs by blocking regulations

Trajectory Forecast Mississippi Canyon 252

NOAA/NOS/OR&R
Estimate for: 1800 CDT, Tuesday, 5/04/10
Date Prepared: 2300 CDT, Monday, 5/03/10

This forecast is based on the NWS spot forecast from Monday, May 3 PM. Currents were obtained from the NOAA Gulf of Mexico model, Texas A&M UCL&S and NCEP models. The model was initialized from SAR data obtained during a Transport Canada overflight Monday AM. The leading edge may contain turbidity that are not readily observable from the imagery (these not included in the model initialization).

When the Obama administration was developing its new policy on offshore drilling, it was warned by NOAA (National Oceanic & Atmospheric Administration) officials that the risks were being underestimated, Dan Fromkin of the Huffingtonpost reports, NOAA is the nation's lead ocean resource agency, and the warnings came in its response to a draft of the Obama Administration's offshore oil drilling plans. The comments were Web-published in October by the whistle-blowing group, Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility (PEER).

But NOAA's views were largely brushed aside as Obama went ahead and announced on March 31 that he would open vast swaths of American coastal waters to offshore drilling -- a plan now very much in doubt as a blown-out BP well in the Gulf of Mexico spews out an estimated 200,000 gallons of oil daily, for the 13th straight day.

NOAA also wrote that the administration's "analysis of the risk and impacts of accidental spills and chronic impacts are understated and generally not supported or referenced, using vague terms and phrases such as 'no substantive degradation is expected' and 'some marine mammals could be harmed.'"

The NOAA report challenged the administrations claims that leaks had been rare in recent years.

Froomkin cites PEER whistleblower group head, Jeff Ruch,

Stop Meg Whitman

End the health care lawsuits. Sign the petition. Chris Kelly for CA AG action.kelly2010.com

that as in many other regulatory agencies, Obama political appointees in the Interior Department's notoriously troubled Minerals Management Service (MMS) have not taken enough steps to reverse the anti-environmental and anti-science policies of the Bush years.

Ads by Google

"For the most part, the Obama team is still the Bush team," Ruch told HuffPost, noting that beyond a thin layer of political appointees, offices like MMS are run by managers who were "promoted during the Bush years -- In many instances, promoted for basically violating the law. And from what we can tell, their conduct hasn't changed."

Furthermore, Ruch said, Obama "sees environmental issues as a political bargaining chip."

Indeed, Obama's decision to increase offshore drilling was widely seen as a way of getting some Republican support for the administration's climate change bill.

I interviewed Lawrence Lessig yesterday (podcast here.) He's working hard for serious campaign finance regulation that gets big money out of influencing politics-- specifically, the Fair Elections Now Act, described at fixcongressfirst. Lessig cited some of the things Obama said that he has failed miserably at delivering on,

"If we do not change our politics -- if we do not fundamentally change the way Washington works -- then the problems we've been talking about for the last generation will be the same ones that haunt us for generations to come."

Or:

"So unless we're willing to challenge the broken system in Washington, and stop letting lobbyists use their clout to get their way, nothing else is going to change."

Or:

"If we're not willing to take up that fight, then real change -- change that will make a lasting difference in the lives of ordinary Americans -- will keep getting blocked by the defenders of the status quo."

And Lessig observed, in his huffingpost article, "Somehow this Administration forgot to "take up that fight." Somehow it has allowed the enemy to become the second largest political party in America (Republicans) rather than the single most vilified profession (lobbyists, just below lawyers and used car dealers). Somehow Obama has been convinced that his promise of bold leadership was a mistake. Somehow he has come to believe that realistic if puny ideas are the ways of transformational presidents like Reagan and FDR. Yet somehow we have got to get this president to recognize that it was the "realism" of 2009 that was his mistake. What American democracy needs right now is leadership. It needs a President who shows us a way to restore our democracy. It needs the anger and impatience of the Republican Roosevelt (Teddy), railing against the corrupting influence of money in politics. "

The response to the SCOTUS Citizens United decision by Chuck Schumer is not enough. It only TELLS where the money comes from. The Fair Elections Now act takes power from the wealthy individuals and corporations and limits contributions to $100, with the government matching that with $400. This will take the top-down influence out of elections and make them the more bottom up, influence-free democratic processes that we-the-people deserve.

Lessig a former Stanford and now Harvard Attorney and internet philosopher luminary writes on many different topics on politics, but always comes back to this core problem. Undue money influences every aspect of our politics and government. If we are going to fix the environment or the banking system or health care, we must first get the money out of elections and politics. Obama promised he would do it, then dropped the ball. We need to make election reform the first priority or none of the other priorities will matter. I call for writers on OEN to take Lessig's approach and tie whatever issues you are covering to election reform.

Read the rest of Froomkin's article here.

Rob Kall is executive editor, publisher and site architect of OpEdNews.com. Host of the Rob Kall Bottom Up Radio Show (WNJC 1360 AM), President of Futurehealth, Inc, (more...)

The views expressed in this article are the sole responsibility of the author and do not necessarily reflect those of this website or its editors.

Contact Author

Contact Editor

View Authors' Articles

Share this page: (what's this?)

Tell a Friend: E-MAIL THIS

Login to Post a Comment:

If you are having problems logging in, click here

Username & Password

Username:

Password:

Forgot your password?
Click here and we'll send it to the email address you used when you registered.

To login (or sign-up), you MUST have cookies turned ON. Click here for details (in a new window.)

If you have not yet registered with OpEdNews, it's quick and easy:

Comments: Expand Shrink Hide

14 comments Post Comment

To view all comments:

Expand Comments

(Or you can set your preferences to show all comments, always)

Refresh

<div class="commentlist" style="m