

Asperatus: gathering storm to force new cloud name (7 pictures) guardian.co.uk

← 6 / 7 →

Thumbnail view

Science

Meteorology

Taxonomy

Environment

6 / 7

Asperatus clouds over Nîmes, France. It will now take some time to check that these clouds do not fit into existing categories. Then the Royal Meteorological Society will take a case to the World Meteorological Organisation in Geneva. "We have still got some investigation to do," said a spokesperson for the RMS. "We are a few months away from taking anything to the WMO." Photograph: Trevor Boulton

Send to a friend Share Clip Buzz up! Digg it